The Republican Platform.

The National republican party of the United States assembled in National Convention in the city of New York, on the 17th inst., have made the following declaration of principles:

First—We congratulate the country on the successful termination of the session of Congress as evinced by the adoption in the majority of the State lately in rebellion of constitutions which recognize the Union as entire, to all; and it is the duty of the government to sustain those institutions and to prevent the people from being subjected to a state of anarchy. (Cheers.)

Second—The guarantee by Congress to equal suffrage in the Territories and the South was maintained by every consideration of public safety, and the question of equal suffrage in the Territories while the question of suffrage in all the loyal States properly belongs to the people of the States. (Cheers.)

Third—We denounce all forms of repudiation as a national crime—(prolonged cheers)—and we demand that the Government should pay the public indebtedness in the utmost good faith to all creditors at home and abroad, not only to the Government but to the great body of laws under which it was contracted. (Applause.)

Fourth—It is the duty of the Government to take prompt action to be organized and reduced to order.

Fourth—The national debt contracted, as the President says, for the purpose of redeeming the currency, and for all other purposes, should be extended over a fair period for redemption; and the interest thereon whenever it can be honestly done.

Fifth—That the best way to diminish our national debt, and to improve our credit, that capitalists will seek to loan us money at lower rates of interest, is to improve our credit, and to look as long as reputation, partial or total, open or covert, is threatened or suspected.

Sixth—The government should be kept as simple as possible, with the strictest economy, and the corruptions which have been so shamefully nursed and fed by Andrew Johnson should be utterly and forever reformed.

Seventh—We profoundly deplore the untimely death of Abraham Lincoln, the Father of the Nation, who has acted cheerfully to the people who elected him, and who has discharged his duties with a high and unswerving integrity, and who has discharged his legislative and judicial functions; who has refused to execute the laws of the country, and who has refused to violate the laws, who has employed his executive powers to render the life of the citizen secure, and who has spared the life of the citizen, who has abused the pardoning power; who
